

CREDENTIALS

The University of Alaska established the Mining and Petroleum Training Service in 1979 specifically to deliver training, development and consulting services to the resource industries of Alaska. Since that time, MAPTS has trained over 100,000+ individuals and has offices in Soldotna, Juneau and Anchorage which serve the entire state. MAPTS is a division of Statewide Corporate Programs, University of Alaska. MAPTS continues to have the largest enrollment of any similar program in North America. Where applicable, MAPTS courses are fully approved by the appropriate agencies.

During the past 33 years, MAPTS has conducted a amplitude of mandatory training programs and worker certification courses. Our current focus is in Mine Safety and Health Training (48/46), Well Control Certification, Oil Spill Response Training, Hazardous Materials and Emergency Response, Hazardous Waste Operator Training, CITS (Cook Inlet) and NSTC (North Slope) courses, Hazard Communications, Respiratory Protection, Helicopter Safety-Egress-Survival, First Aid/CPR, Explosives and Blasting, Forklift Training, Alaska Outdoor Survival, Underground Entry-Level New Miner, Drillers Roustabout training and Heavy-equipment Simulator training for the UG mining industry.

In addition, MAPTS provides pre- and post- employment training for a variety of employers and agencies in the resource industries and provides professional training and development, design and evaluation, as well as consulting services.

MAPTS clients encompass most Alaskan mining and petroleum companies, federal, state, and municipal agencies, environmental firms, and industrial health and safety organizations.
