

Dear Ed Flanders,

I recently became a building representative for my building and now I feel like my principal is treating me differently. Can I be treated differently just because I've decided to become active in the Association?

*Sincerely,
Noah Reprisal*

Dear Noah,

The short answer is that legally and contractually you cannot be treated differently because of your participation in the Association. Article 804 on p.45 of our contract is titled "NON-JEOPARDY. It reads, "No teacher shall suffer discrimination, jeopardy, or coercion in employment or promotional opportunity because of Association membership or activity." If you believe your principal has violated this section of the contract, you should call the Teacher's Rights Committee and make a report.

Signed – Ed
