

APPLICATION DEADLINE: SEPTEMBER 23, 2016

Schlumberger, the world's largest oilfield services company, is partnering with the Alaska Department of Labor and the UAF Mining and Petroleum Training Service organization to offer training, development, and potential employment opportunities for Alaskan residents.

The residential training program simulates the work environment and job responsibilities of a Schlumberger Operator on the Alaska North Slope. Candidates selected for the Operator Trainee program will be offered hands-on and classroom training and several valuable certifications.

Upon successful completion of the program, candidates will have a working knowledge of Schlumberger Operator positions and be a potential candidate for future entry-level positions with Schlumberger.
